

Carload of Local Cows Shipped to American Marines

Moore Brothers & Turner Load Car for Central America

BOAT, NEW ORLEANS

4,000-Mile Journey to Furnish Pure Milk to Soldiers

A carload of Hempstead county milk cows was shipped from Hope Thursday night to Central America to furnish pure milk for American Marines stationed there.

Hempstead county cows were chosen in competition with the stock of other counties in this section for their health and purity of milk, the selection being made by Dr. Troy S. Hopkins, U. S. veterinarian.

The shipment, consisting of grade Holstein and brown Jerseys, left Hope on the Louisiana & Arkansas Railway for New Orleans, to go from there by boat to Panama, a total distance from Hope of approximately 4,000 miles.

Moore Brothers & Turner loaded the car here. They were advised that the importing of new milk stock from the United States was made necessary in Central America by a tropical cattle disease which attacked the native stock and made their milk impure.

It is understood that the local stock upon arrival in Panama will be distributed to American Marine detachments throughout Central America, probably largely in Nicaragua.

Thunder showers are predicted for Friday night and the fight is to go on unless there be such a downpour that the fighters could not be seen.

Citizens Camp Is Opened Thursday

1,200 Men at Camp Pike—Hope Lieutenant to Be Among Officers

CAMP PIKE, Ark.—Arkansas' first Citizens Military training camp opened Thursday with an enlistment of approximately 1,200 Arkansas boys. The month's program of training in citizenship and military science will begin Saturday with a full schedule of drill, instruction, and recreation under the direction of a well-organized personnel of camp officers.

Lieut. Col. Bernard Lentz of the Third Infantry, for the past nine years an outstanding leader in civilian training, is camp commander.

Assisting the 36 Arkansas reserve officers detailed for active duty in the camp are 24 officers of the regular army, and 128 enlisted men of the Third Infantry, headquartered at Fort Snelling, Minn.

Camp Pike, one of the nation's leading training encampments during the World war, has again come to life after twelve years of disuse. Hundreds of khaki tents have risen, as if by magic, and a new generation of Arkansians have officially entered a month's tenure of military life. Extensive improvements which in addition to police, ordinance and commissary details include an auditorium, recreation center and a $50,000 modern swimming pool, have been completed during the past month.

Lieut. Col. Lentz describes the camp's opening as outstanding for efficiency and promise.

Among the South Arkansas men in the first detail of reserve officers who went on active duty June 28 is William H. Power, of Nashville.

Other South Arkansians in the home-state reserves who will serve as officers in later details are as follows: Lieuts. David N. Dale, Edwin O. Harper, Maurice M. Vick, and John M. Moore, of Arkadelphia; Howard S. Galloway and James S. England, of Camden; and Norris O'Neal of Hope.

Gets Robber's Auto Tag as Memory Feared

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—Foy J. Hopkins, 26, visitor from Galveston, Texas, didn't trust his memory when attacked and robbed by a man who offered to ride him to the hotel as the Texan was leaving a French quarter night club.

Struck on the head and dumped from the automobile, Hopkins hopped up and got the license number—in fact he snatched the rear license plate from the car. Police checked the number and arrested Warren Levy.

Cash Sales Here Attract Interest

Strong Position of Hempstead County Noted by State C. of C.

The Star's survey of the cash sales made in Hope last Friday and Saturday, June 26 and 27, has attracted state-wide attention, not because of the newspaper feature, but for the decided strength shown in the merchandising field of Hope and its trade territory.

The following letter was received by The Star Friday from Dudley Haddock, secretary of the Arkansas State Chamber of Commerce, Little Rock: "The volume of cash business in Hope last Friday and Saturday as ascertained by The Star and published Wednesday is surprising. When the Star announced several days ago it was seeking to determine the total and suggested that its readers estimate it I did some figuring myself and reached the conclusion that it would run between $15,000 and $16,000. I regarded this as a fairly liberal estimate even though taking into consideration the fact that Hempstead county was better off than many others because it has been receiving revenue from spring crops and possesses several active industrial plants.

The actual figure, $17,032.33, is amazing. It should serve to fairly root pessimism in Hope because it proves conclusively that business there is not nearly so bad as some undoubtedly have pictured it. I doubt if The Star has ever rendered a greater service to Hope than in ascertaining and publishing this information. Congratulations to both Hope and The Star.

Sincerely,
DUDLEY V. HADDOCK

Saturday Is Final Date For Payment of County Poll Tax

Citizens Urged to Pay Before the Date of Expiration

SHERIFF TO BE HERE

Sheriff John L. Wilson to Be at City Hall Saturday Afternoon

Saturday is the final day for the payment of poll tax. Sheriff and Collector John L. Wilson has announced that in order to accommodate the public, he and his force of deputies will be at the city hall in Hope Saturday to receive such payments.

Persons who have not paid their poll tax by Saturday night will not be legal voters during the next year, and there will probably be occasion to want this privilege very badly during the year. The tax is small, and all of it goes to the school fund. A poll tax receipt is necessary in order to vote at an annual school election or any other special election that may be held.

It is also necessary to have a poll tax receipt in order to hold any state or county position, such as teaching, working on the highway, etc. It is also necessary to hold a receipt to buy automobile license or license to do business in any line licensed by the state.

It is estimated that there are more than 500 persons in DeRoon township alone, who have assessed their poll tax but have not paid.

Mr. Wilson will also collect property and personal taxes at this time. It is hoped that all persons will avail themselves of this opportunity before Saturday night.

Barton-Mansfield Change Name Here

'Hempstead County' Name Taken by Ozan-Graysonia Causes Dispute

A battle over the name "Hempstead County Lumber Company" was revealed Friday by the Barton-Mansfield lumber operators in an advertisement in The Star announcing that they had changed their local name to Hope Building Material Company.

The statement from Barton-Mansfield, who have 25 buildings, supply retail stores in Arkansas and Missouri say that after their announcement last week a rival concern seized the name "Hempstead County Lumber Company" and filed incorporation papers under this name this week.

The Barton-Mansfield company last week leased the ground floor store-rooms of the Julia Chester hospital building at Second and Walnut streets and announced in Star advertisements that they would be known locally as the Hempstead County Lumber Company, Monday of this week the Graysonia Lumber company, which prior to the Barton-Mansfield deal had brought the southwest corner of Third and Walnut, put up a sign there announcing its local operation also would be known as "Hempstead County Lumber company."

The Barton-Mansfield advertisement in today's Star continues as follows: "On Wednesday, June 24th, it was announced on the front page of the Hope Star that we would open a building material store in Hope under the firm name of the Hempstead County Lumber Company."

"We announced our opening in a quarter-page advertisement in the Hope star which appeared Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 25th, 26th and 27th, stating that we would be open for business about July 1st. "One week after the first announcement a competitive company, also planning on opening for business in Hope, filed articles of incorporation papers with the secretary of state at Little Rock, under the name we had selected to launch our business career in your city."

"However, we concede these people the use of our original firm name."

"And we hereby announce the new name of our firm, where you will find a complete line of building materials, at reasonable prices, free home plan service, and architectural advice."

Lee Diehl, well known Arkansas lumberman and building supply man, will be in charge of the Hope Building Material company store at Second and Walnut. He is in the city preparing for the opening.

Hamm Re-Elected By District Legion

Hope Man Again Heads Eight Counties of the 12th District

B. R. Hamm was unanimously re-elected district commander of the 12th District, American Legion, at the annual district convention held at the Hope city hall Thursday night.

This district comprises eight counties in Southwest Arkansas, centering in Hempstead. Mr. Hamm was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Winifred Lake of DeQuen, upon his resignation a year ago last spring, to run for public office. The term of office is for two years.

The re-election came as the result of the splendid showing of this district this year. The district ranked fourth in a field of 16, Charles Q. Kelley, of Fort Smith, in charge of the "Top to Boston" committee for the national convention last year, and on the "On to Detroit" committee this year, represented department headquarters at the district convention here.

Mr. Kelley told of the wonderful reception accorded Hope's champion watermelon "Jumbo" at the Boston convention last year. He said it did more to bring favorable publicity for Arkansas, among people from all over the nation who saw it at Boston, than any other single piece of advertising the state has ever used. Upon viewing "Jumbo," in its glass refrigerator, one Bostonian remarked, "Well, how did they pump that up?" Mr. Kelley recommended that the Hope post send this year's champion melon to Detroit for the October convention.

Joe Mathews, post commander, and Capt. McClelland, chairman of the convention committee, both of Monticello, were visitors, where they spoke in the interest of the State convention which is to be held in their city on August 8th, 9th and 10th.

Broadway America Seeks Advertising

Association Agent and Sen. DuVall Purkins Guest of Rotary

By October the Broadway of America will be paved from coast to coast, nearly two years ahead of the next best transcontinental route, Gorman Hoefel, Broadway representative from El Paso, Texas, told Hope Rotary club at its luncheon Friday in Hotel Barlow.

Another speaker Friday was State Senator DuVall Purkins, native of Hope, but now a resident of Warren, where he owns the Eagle-Democrat newspaper. Senator Purkins paid high tribute to his old home town, and called attention to the marvelous economic recovery being staged in every section of Arkansas this spring and summer.

Mr. Hoefel, for the Broadway of America association, laid before the Rotary club a plan to raise $34,000 for an advertising fund to bring back tourist traffic on the now-nearly completed national highway. This plan calls for a tax of five cents per capita in each city traversed by the Broadway, amounting in Hope to $300.

The speaker said that for every 1,000 cars traveling over 350 miles of highway—an average day's journey—$15,000 is distributed to local business along the way.

Mr. Hoefel said the last gap in the Broadway, which is in Arkansas, would be closed this October, and that the association had therefore chosen this fall as the logical time to launch its advertising campaign appealing to tourists. The Broadway of America, he added, is not only the most direct route from coast to coast, but the only one that is free of snow in the winter.

The program Friday was presented by Frank Ward, of the program committee, with C. Spragins presiding at his first full meeting since inauguration as president.

Carter Johnson announced that Col. John R. Fordyce, noted engineer of Fort Springs, would visit the Hope club (next Friday, July 10, to give an illustrated lecture on the travels of DeSoto, Spanish explorer who is identified with the early history of Arkansas.

Tomatoes Hurt By Hot Weather

Crop Will Be Damaged Within Next Few Days Is Report

NASHVILLE.—The continued hot weather is damaging the tomato crop in this section very seriously, and it is feared that if relief is not had in the next day or so, the entire crop will be finished here, according to the Nashville News. Some of the fields are already firing and others are on the verge of firing. The shipments have been cut down considerably during the week because of the heat. Most of the fields of this section have had nice rains within the past week or ten days, but the moisture did not last long because of the excessive heat. The price of tomatoes has held up during the week, the growers realizing from one and a half to two cents per pound. The culling has been a little heavier during the week, however.

Most of the cucumbers of the section have been killed by the heat, and few are being harvested here now.

Completion of War Debt Proposal Expected at Once

Negotiations With France Under Way For Several Days

Definite Announcement Follow Conference Friday

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—American officials after commencing negotiations with France Friday, they "hoped and expected" to complete negotiations between the United States and France on President Hoover's war debt proposal before Friday night.

Officials said they did not expect a definite announcement until after Mellon and Ambassador Edgar had held a conference late Friday in Paris.

It is believed from the above statements that negotiations with France are nearing an end, sooner, perhaps, than the most optimistic had expected. Although Paris has been yielding ground for the past few days.

Each day has seen the French concede from some of their former demands at the beginning of the conference. It is not doubted that the cabinet perceived the danger of the isolation of France if the United States, Great Britain, Germany and Italy were to arrange a debt holiday with France.

The first step in that event would be a declaration of a reparations moratorium by Germany under the provisions of the Young plan. The United States and Great Britain then would negotiate individual agreements with all their debtors except France postponing their payments on war debts one year.

Banks Describes 38 Years Business

Began With Insurance at Fordyce—Bank Was Thought Solvent

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The rise and fall of his great banking and insurance business was described by A. E. Banks Friday in his trial on a charge of accepting a deposit in an insolvent bank, the American Exchange Trust Company here.

He told how he started in the insurance business at Fordyce 38 years ago, using the profits to buy bank stock and the bank stock to build up his insurance reserve.

He said he considered the American Exchange solvent last November 15, the last day on which it was open for business and that its failure reopened had destroyed much of his assets and wrecked his insurance companies.

Banks took the stand shortly after court opened Friday morning.

A quantity of the goods were found by the officers, consisting of shirts, ties, shoes and hats, valued at $52. The boys were arrested by Sheriff Ray Williams and City Marshall J. G. Reese and the loot was found by the officers. It is said the boys admitted the burglary. Ferguson furnished bond, but Lewis was placed in jail at Washington in default of bond.

Cotton Acreage Is Decreased in Texas

Report Shows 10 Per Cent Decline Over the 1930 Crop in State

AUSTIN, Tex.—(AP)—Acreage planted to cotton in Texas this year was from seven to ten per cent less than the acreage planted to this crop in 1930, according to figures of Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the bureau of business research at the University of Texas and internationally recognized cotton statistical expert.

The decreased cotton acreage was attributed by Dr. Cox to increased planting of feed crops with about the same total acreage in cultivation as last year.

Reports to Dr. Cox from India and Egypt indicate a reduction of between five and ten per cent in cotton acreage in these countries. European imports from these two countries have seriously curtailed the American export trade, according to Dr. Cox.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY

NEA Service Station

One of the most refreshing ways to begin a hot weather meal is the luncheon of dinner is with a fruit soup. While many housewives have been using this first course for several years, fruit soups are far from common, and this novelty adds much to their attraction.

A clear soup of rich color is distinctly pleasing to the eye, and combined with the faint fragrance of fruit, tempts doubly.

Part fruits are best suited to a cooling soup which above all must be pleasant and stimulating. A combination of flavors is also good and affords a variety of effects.

Mum Be Cold

Any service which would be correct for either bouillon or a fruit soup can be used for the chilled fruit soup. Bouillon cubes, chilled in the ice box before filling, after bet glasses, glass cups, cocktail glasses or grape fruit sets all are permissible. The soups are eaten with a bouillon or small-bowled soup spoon.

Thorough chilling is essential, for half the charm of the soup lies in its temperature.

The thickening agent may be cornstarch, arrowroot, tapioca or even flour. The utmost care must be taken not to make the soup too thick. A firm, sticky concoction is far from inviting, but a slightly thick, syrupy consistency is cooling and appetizing.

The following recipes may inspire you to work out some combination for yourself.

Current Soup

One quart red currants, 3 cups water, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons minute tapioca, few grains salt.

Stem and wash fruit. Crush and simmer in water for 20 minutes. Strain through a jelly bag and add sugar. Bring to the boiling point and add tapioca and salt. Cook until apples are clear and mixture is transparent. Chill and serve. Two cups of red currants and two cups of red currants makes a delicious combination. Strawberry and orange is another good combination.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Cantaloupe, cereal, cream, crisp broiled bacon with eggs, popovers, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Cold sliced meat, cold creamed carrots, bread and butter, fruit pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER: Omelette soup, fried spring chicken, potatoes, fullenne, creamed cauliflower, stuffed beet salad, chocolate soufflé, milk, coffee.

other good combination. Pizzas make an appetizing soup and provide an excellent way to use this fruit in menus.

Pump Soup

One quart pumpkins, 4 cups water, 1 stick cinnamon, 2-3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon arrowroot, few grains of salt.

Wash pumpkins thoroughly. Put into kettle with water and simmer until skins are broken and fruit is tender. Strain through jelly bag. Add cinnamon and sugar and bring to the boiling point. Add salt and stir in arrowroot mixed to a smooth paste with a little cold water. Cook until mixture thickens slightly. Chill and serve.

Arrowroot often is used in place of cornstarch and is especially desirable for children, since it is more easily digested.

Salt is always used to take care of the "flat" taste of whatever thickening agent is used. Cherries and grapes also make delicious fruit soups as well as all the berries.

Autogiro Is New In Aviation Field

Born of Wreckage From Airplane—Descends Vertically

By OSCAR LEIDING

Associated Press Aviation Editor PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—(AP)—A comparative newcomer in aviation, the autogiro, was born from the wreck of an airplane.

Its elevation to public interest is recent, heralded by production of two and three-place models for the private and sport flier, delivery of one to the navy for military experiment, and plans for autogiro cabin planes and flying boats abroad.

Yet its history reaches to 1918 when a Spanish inventor, Juan de la Cerva, saw a three-engine bomber he had designed for his nation's air force wrecked when its pilot flew it too slowly to the ground.

He set about to discover an entirely new principle of flight by which machines would be capable of flying slowly and safely as well as fast far.

Engine Reversed

He found it in autorotation, converting to a useful purpose what always had been a bugbear to heavier-than-air craft in the form of the deadly spins—the very thing that ended the days of his bomber.

In place of the fixed wings of the ordinary airplane, he adopted a system of rotating wings, the power for their rotation to be taken from the air reactions on the wings themselves.

His first full size ship, built in 1922, had two sets of two blades each, rotated horizontally in opposite directions. It was unsuccessful, and it was not until 1923, with a rotor of four blades, that the first autogiro flight was made.

Where a fixed wing airplane derives its lift from high forward speed, the autogiro derives 80 per cent of its lift in flight and 100 per cent in vertical descent from its whirling "paddles."

This "buoyancy" enables the craft to take off with a short run and to land "on its own shadow."

The "paddles" are long, narrow blades shaped in cross section like an airplane wing. They are whirled by the air reactions upon them, never receiving any power from the engine in flight.

The engine serves only to drive the propeller for forward progress of the machine, and is connected with the "paddles" only on the ground to set them to whirling to a speed of 120-150 revolutions a minute.

The bladed rotor system is mounted on a hub set a little behind the center of gravity so that, when the power driving the conventional propeller in the nose of the ship is shut off, an autogiro will assume a natural gliding angle.

Each blade is hinged to ways, for limited up and down and fore and aft movement. "Droop" cables keep them at rest on the ground.

As the blades rotate in flight they come slightly upwards, assuming a balanced position between their tendency from centrifugal force to be straight out horizontally and the lift forces acting to pull them upward.

Hinging Prevents Tipping If it were not for hinging, the machine would tip in flight as the lift forces on an advancing blade would be greater because the airspeed would be greater from forward movement, both of blade and autogiro, while a receding blade would be going "downward" and be less effective.

The hinges allow each advancing blade to rise automatically, in effect assuming less lift, while each blade in receding descends, and causes greater lift.

In vertical descent the lift forces on each blade are equal. The small fixed wings of the autogiro, with upturned tips, serve mainly to provide lateral stability and carry the ailerons and the wide undercarriage.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

My Mistake!

Your correspondent was so certain that Cornish would win the thoughtless regatta that he went away out on a limb and declared so other crew had a chance. So the Navy won.

And Brooklyn! Imagine a hobo being so rash as to pick the Flatbush Footloose Flock to win the National League pennant. Of course that race isn't over yet and Brooklyn "may surprise." For years this writer picked the Giants to win. This year, with the Giants having seemingly a better chance than last season, I switched to the Dizzy Dodgers. How do you figure a guy like this?

I cherished the hunch that Jamestown would make Twenty Grand look like 30 cents. You saw how that one turned out—Twenty Grand looking in a good state of throw ahead of the Widener horse. Even Sun Meadow beating Jamestown, just to make it look good!

Here Goes!

ACTING on the theory that if you just stay in there and take your cut, you're bound to click some time, I have decided to pick Stitz Schmeling to retain the world's heavyweight championship from Willie the Clutch.

It seems I am wrong even before the bout starts. Of 360 replies to a nation-wide poll of sports editors' opinions on the fight, 269 have picked Stitzling, while 91 think der Schlager will do it. Over-ruler by my colleagues 3 1/2 to 1!

But wait—that race isn't over yet, either. There is still time to say a few well-chosen words about the merits of my bum.

My bum? Well, hardly that. He leads a lot with his chin, true enough. He is wide open for a left, to be sure, and a wicked, rapier-like left is what Stitzling has. He is not a very good mechanical fighter, either on defense or offense. He makes a lot of mistakes. He takes a lot of punishment. The guy doesn't seem so terribly smart. Why then, do I like him to the extent of picking him to beat the great boxer, Stitzling?

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

RECENT quotations from Tom Kearney, St. Louis commissioner on arguments, quote the Athletics at 0 to 0 to win, place and show . . . in other words no bets can be made on the team to win the pennant . . . the Yankees are 4 to 1 to win, even to place with the show out . . . Washington the same . . . Cleveland is 10 to 1, 5 to 2 and 3 to 5 . . . the longest specials are Chicago and St. Louis, each 500 to 1 to win, 200 to 1 to place and 100 to 1 to show . . . the Cardinals and Giants are rated equal, 2 to 1 and 7 to 10 without any show . . . Brooklyn is 6 to 1, 3 to 2 and 1 to 2 . . . the Braves do not look so bad at 40 to 1, 10 to 1 and 3 to 1.

Because he has what Stitzling never will have—a fighting heart. When that Dutchman grins his teeth and comes wading in there, taking a beating, but coming in, trying with all his might, hooking and jabbing and crossing, he is a reminder of a day when fighters actually fought and liked it.

Only a Few Left

HE won his title on the floor, but he won't think for a minute that he wanted to win that way. He'd be fighting Sharkey yet if Joe Jacobs wasn't so smart. And Sharkey so dumb.

Max has been dubbed Sir Bum by enough boxing experts to fill the stadium at Cleveland. But I think the Dutchman is going to change their minds. In this fight I think he is going to show fighting qualities . . . you might not have thought he had.

There are only a few of his kind left—men with fighting hearts.

Sue me if I'm wrong—and get daudru!
